The programme continued with warm words of appreciation from the respected faculty, acknowledging Madam's unwavering commitment and the guiding force she has been for generations of students and staff.

The celebration was further enriched by a graceful dance performance by Kyra Anand of Grade 10, which added elegance and vibrancy to the proceedings. The Mystery of the Bermuda Triangle

The Bermuda Triangle is a mysterious region in the Atlantic Ocean, located between Florida, Bermuda, and Puerto Rico. It has gained worldwide attention because of reports of ships and aircraft that allegedly disappeared while travelling through the area.

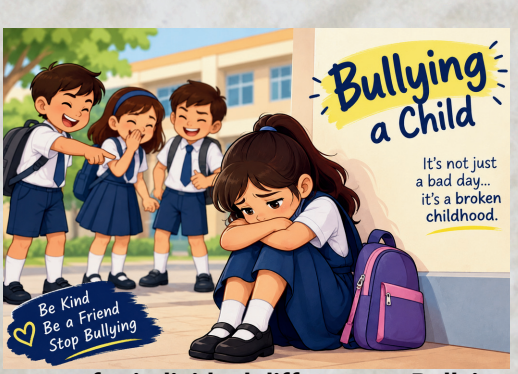

Over the years, these incidents have given rise to many fascinating theories. Some people believe that extraterrestrial beings are responsible, while others imagine the existence of hidden underwater cities. Such intriguing ideas have inspired numerous books, films, and television programmes.

However, scientists say that there is no reliable evidence of supernatural forces at work. They suggest that severe storms, powerful ocean currents, unpredictable weather, and human error could explain many of the reported incidents. Moreover, countless ships and aircraft cross the region safely every year.

Despite scientific explanations, the Bermuda Triangle continues to fascinate people around the world. Whether its reputation is based on genuine mysteries or exaggerated stories, this region remains an interesting subject of curiosity and investigation.

Bullying a Child: A Serious Concern

Bullying is a harmful act that can have a profound impact on a child's mental, physical, and emotional well-being. It can shatter a child's confidence, create feelings of fear and insecurity, and leave lasting emotional scars. Often, when a child is bullied, other students distance themselves from the victim out of fear of becoming targets themselves. In some cases, they may even join in the bullying, leaving the child isolated and helpless. Bullying can take many forms, including verbal, physical, emotional, and social abuse. One such example is the story of Lola, a thirteen-year-old girl who faced bullying because of her cultural differences and racial background. The story highlights the painful reality of bullying and reminds us of the importance of empathy, acceptance, and respect for individual differences. Bullying can have serious consequences. Some children become so frightened and emotionally distressed that they lose their confidence, withdraw from social interactions, and become reluctant to leave their homes. They may suffer from anxiety, loneliness, and a persistent fear of being judged or humiliated. However, with timely intervention, emotional support, and encouragement, children can gradually rebuild their confidence and develop the resilience to face difficult situations.

The Magic of a Smile

Sometimes, we do not know what someone is going through behind a quiet face. They may be carrying worries that nobody can see, yet a small smile from us can make their heart feel a little lighter.

A smile is one of the smallest things in the world, but it can have the biggest effect. It costs nothing, takes only a moment, and yet it can bring warmth to someone who feels lonely. A smile can say what words sometimes cannot: "I see you. You matter.

Imagine a child sitting alone in a classroom, afraid to speak because they feel different or nervous. Then, someone smiles at them and says hello. That tiny moment may seem ordinary to everyone else, but to that child, it could become a memory they never forget. Sometimes, even the people who smile the most are fighting silent battles. They may laugh with their friends while their hearts are heavy. This is why we should never underestimate the kindness of a smile. We may never know how much someone needed it that day.

A smile can come from anywhere—a parent waiting patiently at home, a teacher encouraging a struggling student, a friend standing beside us when we feel lost, or even a stranger who smiles as we pass by. These little moments remind us that kindness still exists in the world.

We often wish we could do something great to make the world a better place. But perhaps change begins with something much smaller. Perhaps it begins with a smile, a kind word, a helping hand, or simply being there for someone. So, the next time you see someone who looks tired, lonely or sad, give them a smile. You may forget that moment tomorrow, but they may remember it for years. Because sometimes, a smile is not just an expression of happiness—it is a little ray of hope given from one heart to another.

The Nation Begins In A Classroom

The nation begins in a classroom,
Where every child matters,
Because only time will tell
If the next President hides between all the chatter.

Debates about subjects,
Discussions with teachers,
One of us may grow up to be
The next big preacher.

All hope for the future is not lost
If we are taught well, we will know the cost
Of making false promises and big empty speeches,
But when the time comes to act,
suddenly no one sees us.

I have faith in our dear teachers,
Always ready to help and always near,
When we start to walk the path of dishonesty
They are there to help us steer clear.

We are the future of our nation,
And while that is quite a scary thought,
It is relieving to know for sure
Our teachers have taught us everything that cannot be bought.
